

Whether you are a buyer or a seller, CRI can help you get the most out of your investment.

BENEFIT FROM SERVICES AND SOLUTIONS THAT ARE:

- Nimble. When opportunities knock, you need practical, innovative, and especially timely advice to help you seize those opportunities, make well-informed business decisions, and achieve greater success. CRI can help you efficiently analyze new possibilities and assess value quickly so that you can continue growing.
- Strategic. We will work with you to plan for the future by creating thoughtful, comprehensive, and strategic plans around your business transactions. We specifically gear our services toward your deal, and address your unique needs before, during, and after each transaction. That way, you can make the right decisions for you.
- Seamless. At CRI, we are flexible and able to step in seamlessly to help you evaluate new opportunities with limited disruption of your workforce. Our in-depth knowledge of your business means we can quickly help with due diligence, evaluations, and financial performance assessments – whatever you need to help you understand the deal and feel comfortable making decisions around it.

Certain business decisions – such as a merger, acquisition, or sale – can become significant inflection points for a company. Therefore, organizations considering such changes should work with knowledgeable advisors who can guide them toward the most favorable outcome for the transaction and the company.

CRI's specialists have conducted hundreds of business transactions worth several billion dollars in value. We leverage our expertise to deliver a comprehensive range of business transaction services – including project management, negotiations, due diligence (buy- and sell-side), and post-acquisition integration.

Business transactions can be stressful for accounting team members, who must manage company finances while adapting to a new environment. We can help design and support an accounting structure that fits the new business' needs – thereby enabling the accounting team to perform their day-to-day tasks. No matter what our clients' transaction needs may be, we prioritize understanding their objectives so that we can provide the best solutions for a successful transition.